Note: I am including revenue received from July 15th from Paypro and a payment from CH received on July 1st even though I am only calculating tax and deductions up to June 30th.

The next revenue report will include deductions and tax collected for the entirety of July.

I have broken up the revenue reports for both April/May and June as I completed the April/May report at the beginning of June, and just completed the June revenue report.

We received quite a bit of affiliate revenue from CH from sales in May as a result of the launch of Minecraft Dungeons and that trainer page.

Total Revenue

April/May: $6,082.96

June: $26,923.38

Total: $33,006.34 CAD

Note: Revenue is being based on when it was received, not when it was earned.

Our shares are: $11,002.11 CAD each.

Shares will be sent via Transferwise Bank Transfer when I have the necessary information.

Another month where I am including only deductions for July but revenue up to Aug 15th. Maybe next month we'll wait the extra 15 days to get back to regular end of month rev reports.

Next month we'll have a payment from Payssion as well as a larger payment from Paygol which will boost the numbers a bit.

This month we get back to our regular monthly revenue reports which is good. There are 2 months worth of deductions in this report due to our last report only including deductions up to July.

This month will be a bit smaller than it otherwise would be since we won't receive the payment for our 'Among Us' sales until the next revenue report. We also have a pending Payssion payout that is estimated to arrive tomorrow, which puts it into the next revenue report. Most of our Paygol funds are still pending so we will likely have a payout for those next month as well. Overall though, our total earnings were still up this month and will be even larger next month.

Fairly decent month I would say, it's been nice getting commissions from CH for affiliate sales. I am continuing to try to improve our revenue from them by ranking us for some trainer related keywords. Sales were good this month with over 20,000 USD sales through PayPro, in large part due to continuing Among Us sales.

Fair drop off in revenue this month from the previous one. Among Us sales dropped off quite a bit and there weren't any other titles to pick up the slack. Adding single BF5 subscriptions turned out to likely have been a good idea, with 32 sold so far (We rank well for these keywords).

Apparently the billing issues I noted regarding CA's host, Knownsrv turned out to be bigger than I realized. Though the billing appeared to be going through on their site, we weren't being billed at all, and upon review, it was discovered we hadn't actually had any charge go through to the business bank account most of the year. To resolve that I made a single payment via Transferwise, which has better exchange rates to USD than the bank. That is why the total deductions are higher this month than normal. Note that no deductions were made for KnownSRV in previous months due to this.

Total payments made to Knownsrv were for 8 months of service, March - October.

The overall payout for this month was better than I expected, that was due to Stripe payments being used for more transactions this month, as Paypro's payout will be larger in next month's revenue report. That actually puts this months' payout up above last month's by a few hundred dollars, and I would imagine next months' will be higher as well.

Payments will be sent via Transferwise.
